Dear Name:

Life is busy. Maybe you're working two jobs just to pay the bills, or maybe you have children to care for. However, you know earning your college degree is the right thing to do because it means more opportunities for better employment.

You started college once, maybe twice. But did you know that a degree might be closer than you think? You have already earned most of the college credits required for completing a two-year Associate's Degree.

Let us help you get the credit you deserve.

By participating in Degree Matters, the Arkansas college or university where you earned the most credits will review your transcripts and your eligibility for an Associate's Degree. If you meet the criteria, you'll get a degree. If not, we'll tell you how to complete your degree.

To participate, go to www.degree matters.org and enter your unique code (below) to confirm your identity, update your contact information, and consent to participate in Degree Matters.

What do you have to lose?
